

Coleman Solis

Department of Bioethics, National Institutes of Health
10 Center Drive, Suite 1C118, Bethesda, MD, 20892
(217) 418-8829 | coleman.solis@nih.gov | coleman.solis@gmail.com

CURRENT POSITION

Post-Baccalaureate Fellow, National Institutes of Health, Department of Bioethics.
Research Mentors: David DeGrazia, Marion Danis, David Wasserman

EDUCATION

B.A., Philosophy Pomona College, 2019

PUBLICATIONS

Coleman Solis. "How Much Does Slaughter Harm Humanely Raised Animals?" Journal of Applied Philosophy (forthcoming 2021). <https://doi.org/10.1111/japp.12483>.

Ben Berkman, Sara Hull, Coleman Solis, Anna Mastroianni, Leila Jamal, and Holly Taylor.
"The Ethics of Repurposing Previously Collected Research Biospecimens in an Infectious Disease Pandemic," Ethics & Human Research (forthcoming 2021).

WORKS IN PROGRESS

"Relativism and the Usefulness of Morality"
Pursues an original line of objection to a family of metaethical theories variously referred to as "moral relativism" and "contextualism."

"Towards A Clinical Ethics of Care in Home Care Work"
With Kevin Mintz, David Wasserman, Marion Danis, and Kathleen Fenton
Sets out the circumstances under which in-home healthcare workers could have a moral duty to care about their clients; contends that such circumstances do not currently exist.

PRESENTATION

"A Retrospective Review of 18 years of Ethics Consults at a Community Hospital"
Presented at Center for Bioethics & Human Dignity conference, June 2018.
Advisor: Robert E. Cranston, M.D.

SENIOR EXERCISE

"A Survey of Prominent Metaethical Views"
Readers: Julie Tannenbaum, Michael Green
Surveyed prominent contemporary views on the nature and source of moral normativity.

HONORS AND AWARDS

IRTA Fellowship, National Institutes of Health 2019-2021
Competitive two-year post-baccalaureate fellowship.

- Fellowship, Mellon-Mays Undergraduate Program 2017-2020
Competitive fellowship which provides research funding (~$25,000) to members of underrepresented groups who aspire to academic careers.
- Morton O. Beckner Prize 2019
Award given yearly for academic excellence in philosophy at Pomona College.
- Alain-Locke Fellow, PIKSI Institute (MIT) Summer 2018
Competitive fellowship awarded to members of underrepresented groups interested in careers in philosophy; funds participation in a summer intensive program at MIT.

WORK AND SERVICE EXPERIENCE

- Fellow On Call, Bioethics Consultation Service, National Institutes of Health 2020-2021
Participant, Ethics Committee, National Institutes of Health Clinical Center 2019-2021
Work-In-Progress-Talk Organizer, NIH Department of Bioethics 2019-2021
Caregiver, Sinai In-Home Care 2019
Writing Partner, Writing Center 2017-2018
Course Writing Partner, Medical Ethics (taught by Julie Tannenbaum)
Course Writing Partner, Reasons, Actions, and Events (taught by Peter Thielke)
Carle Foundation Hospital Ethics Internship Project 2018
Reviewed ethics consultation notes at Carle Foundation Hospital, made policy recommendations based on findings.
Writing Mentor – Philosophy, Pomona College 2016-2018
Community Liaison, Pomona College Philosophy Department 2016-2018
Club President, Pomona College Musicians’ Coalition 2016-2018

REFERENCES

David DeGrazia, Ph.D.

Elton Professor of Philosophy, George Washington University; Senior Research Fellow, National Institutes of Health - Department of Bioethics
david.degrazia@nih.gov; ddd@gwu.edu

David Wasserman, Ph.D.

Faculty, National Institutes of Health – Department of Bioethics
david.wasserman@nih.gov

Julie Tannenbaum, Ph.D.

Professor of Philosophy and Chair of Philosophy Department, Pomona College julie.tannenbaum@pomona.edu